Quality of Mutton.

When sheep have been hard driven for a few hours before being killed, or if they have suffered at any time recently from lack of food and water, it affects the meat, which is said to have the "woolly taste," or, as it is sometimes called, the sheep taste. There is no kind of meat that has finer flavor than mutton when it is at its best. But this means that the sheep shall be fattened without injury to its digestion and that it shall never be subjected to hardship. The practice of shipping sheep huddled in cars for long distances and often without needed food makes the animals feverish and injures the quality of their meat. A sheep that has fattened on rich, sweet pasture and is killed without being run down to catch it will make good mutton. There is popular belief that the fine wool Merino sheep makes inferior mutton. Its wool makes a warmer coat, thus causing the animal to sweat more when it travels. Besides this, the Merino is not so hearty a feeder as are the coarse wooled sheep. But if care is taken to feed them so as never to make the sheep feverish or cause them to sweat, the mutton from Merino sheep can be made as good as that from the so called mutton breeds. —Boston Cultivator.

Horses' Feet.

When a horse is lame in the fore limb, the seat of disease or injury is in a large majority of cases to be found in the foot. Therefore Professor W. Williams of Edinburgh, at the recent annual meeting of the National Veterinary association, held at Leeds, strongly recommends—more particularly the younger members of the veterinary profession—not to neglect removal of the shoe and examination of the foot in all cases of sudden lameness, even if there might be evidence of alteration of structure in another part of the limb. A horse falling suddenly lame may be found to have well developed bone spavins, sidebones or splints, which must have existed for some time antecedent to the lameness. No one has a right to conclude that any of these is the cause of the sudden deviation from normal action. In all cases the foot should be examined, when in all probability the cause will be found there. "From a neglect of this," said Professor Williams, "I have seen horses both fired and blistered upon various parts of their limbs, the real cause eventually becoming too apparent by the appearance of pus at the coronet or even the death of the patient."—London Live Stock Journal.

Exporting Wool.

The American Wool Reporter says: In the matter of exporting wool our dealers feel that there is possibly room for considerable activity. A large number of samples of Australian wool have been sent from Boston to England, and several houses report shipments of round lots this week. We have it on excellent authority that 1,500 bales must have been exported so far. A number of rumors have been in circulation about these foreign exports, most of which cannot be authenticated, and some of which appear rather absurd on their face. It is said, for instance, that 6,000 bales have been contracted for, 4,000 from one party. Another story is that the party who made the first shipment from here sent 400 or 500 bales as a test, with the prospect of sending 2,500 or 3,000 bales more. That there has been considerable interest displayed by Europeans in our stock of merino wools cannot be doubted.

SEA GRASSES.

Down soft velvet slopings impearled with the dew,
Toying with wealth and her fashionings new,
Ever we utter,
"Braver are ye,
O stiff, briny grasses that drink of the sea!"

Weary of softness, of gold and of gain,
We catch a response from their station of pain,
"Lowly and lonely,
Blessed are we
Who stand in our lot by the brink of the sea."

"Sharp on your rocks ever beateth the foam,
Tender the turf in the dooryards of home."
"Yea, but no murm'ring
Answereth thee!
Kingly our calm by the infinite sea."

"Inland the bluebird his song doth upraise."
"Better to us the surf thunder of praise;
Near the Eternal,
Chosen to be
Facing the tides of a limitless sea."

"Bowed and browbeaten, how may ye sustain
Daily the shocks of the pitiless main?"
"Nay, power hath pity;
Love solaced, we!
Odors rise sweet from the infinite sea."

"Silent uplifting ye surely must know,
Bliss our best earth love can never bestow."
"Soul, thou art lonely
Even as we!
Come into the swell of the infinite sea!

"Softly its voices thy spirit shall greet,
Treasure of sea bloom come up to thy feet.
Strength shall betide thee,
Sharp though it be,
Thy priesthood of pain by the infinite sea."
—Caroline D. Swan in Catholic World.

DICK'S GUEST.

To get money and to keep it, according to Richard Whinstone's catechism, were the two chief ends of man.

He was a single man on principle. It was the right thing economically, and therefore right indubitably.

To one person in the world Richard Whinstone was generous, and that was his dear friend, Richard Whinstone.

Richard Whinstone had done a good day's work. He had made one or two profitable shaves. He had sold up the Widow Marten and turned her and her six children out of doors for nonpayment of rent, and finally had read a little boy with a pinched and pitiful face who had besought the price of a loaf of bread and who said he had a sick mother at home a lecture on the sinfulness of begging that evidently touched the little wretch's conscience, for he turned aside and wept bitterly.

"You're a good citizen, Dick," he said as he sat down to dinner, "and deserve to be rewarded."

The dinner was one after his own heart. It was a treat he had promised himself if things went right, and they had gone right.

He ate, drank and was merry. If his appetite lost its edge, the bottle of burgundy was there to whet it, and he fell to again till the last morsel, like Macbeth's amen, stuck in his throat.

Satiety normally begets placidity. The lion, the leopard and the lamb might lie down together any day with perfect safety to the latter provided the two former had their bellies full. The boa constrictor gorged with an ox betakes himself for a season to a life of quiet, but the effect on Richard Whinstone was different. The expense of dinner rested heavily on his conscience, and his brain began to busy itself with schemes of reimbursement.

The current of his thoughts was interrupted by a loud knock. Who could be coming on business at that hour? Some one perhaps with a bill to discount in an emergency that would bear no waiting. So much the better, and he hastened to open the door.

"How are you, Dick?" the stranger greeted him, with a familiarity altogether too careless for a needy customer.

"I have not the pleasure of your acquaintance, sir," said Richard in a tone more freezing than polite.

"But I know you very well," returned the stranger, "and pray don't let us stand here bandying ceremonies, for it's confounded chilly." Saying which he led the way to the apartment Richard had just quitted.

"Well, this is comfort," he continued, rubbing his hands before the fire. "I haven't felt so much at home since I left there."

A hasty survey of his visitor added alarm to Richard's astonishment. He was a wiry, ill looking little man, in a rusty suit of black, with a wicked leer on his face and one club foot.

"I say, Dick," the little man resumed, holding his hands in the blaze as if they were fireproof, "what an inhospitable dog you are!"

"Whether hospitable or inhospitable," growled Richard, losing his temper as he gained his courage, "is not your business, but I would like to know what is."

"It's bad talking business on an empty stomach."

"I don't see how it's to be helped," answered Dick doggedly.

"Don't you see how it's to be helped, you curmudgeon?" thundered the little man fiercely. "With the remains of such a feast on the table there must be more where it came from."

"Upon my word," replied Richard meekly, for he was getting frightened again, "there isn't a bite in the house."

"Don't lie!" roared the other. "There's a cold ham in the pantry and a demijohn of brandy in the closet."

"How do you know that?" it was on the tip of Richard's tongue to ask, but he was too much amazed to speak.

"How do I know it?" broke in the stranger, as if reading his thoughts. "Why, I smell them. So bring them out."

Richard would have demurred, but his guest made a movement which convinced him delay might be dangerous, and the required articles were produced.

Without changing his seat, the little man drew up to the table and began to eat. And how he did eat! A chunk of ham, big enough for a shark bait, was stuck on the point of the carving knife and thrust down his throat with the audacity of a sword swallower. Another and another followed, till nothing remained but the bone, which he crushed with his teeth and then sucked the marrow.

"Now for a punch!" he cried.

"There is no hot water," Richard ventured to say.

"Water! Who asked for water? Bring me a lemon, some sugar and a kettle."

The kettle was placed on the fire. The stranger filled it with brandy, adding lemon and sugar to suit his taste. As the liquor boiled over it caught fire, setting the whole in a blaze.

Richard jumped up to take it off. The stranger caught his arm and flung him back as if he had been a child instead of a substantial citizen of 200 pounds.

"What are you about?" he exclaimed. "The punch is doing well enough."

"I was only afraid the house might be burned."

"Bother the house!" replied the little man. "There's no danger."

"Your health, Dick," at length he said, and raising the kettle all blazing to his lips he drank like a dromedary.

"And now, Dick, it's your turn," he said, after a long breath. "You must drink my health now."

Richard drew back.

"Drink!" shouted the stranger, holding out the vessel.

Poor Dick took a single gulp. He left the skin of his mouth on the brim of the kettle, his throat was scorched as with liquid fire and his hair was singed by the blaze.

"And now to business," said the stranger, resuming his seat and leaving Dick to sit or stand as he chose.

"You knew John Walter, I believe?"

"Ye—yes," stammered Richard. "I once knew a person of that name."

"You and he went to California together?"

Richard acknowledged the fact.

"You made money, and he didn't?"

"I believe I was the more fortunate of the two."

"You and he started to return together, and he died at San Francisco?"

Richard bowed.

"His wife and children are now destitute," the stranger persisted.

"I can't help that."

"Of course not. It was his boy you gave the good advice to today. I hope the young scamp will profit by it."

The scene with the little beggar, Richard was quite sure, had been witnessed by no one. How the stranger had found out was past comprehension.

"You're quite sure John Walter died poor?" the stranger went on.

"Oh, quite!" said Richard. "I paid his funeral exponses myself."

"That's a lie!" retorted the little man. "They were paid by the public. It's another lie that he died poor. He had $20,000 with him which you stole!"

"I deny it," Richard fairly screamed, "and defy you to prove it!"

"Prove it! What effrontery! Why, I saw you do it!"

"It's false! There was nobody present!"

"Be careful, Dick, or you'll commit yourself. I saw you do another thing."

Richard sank shivering into a chair, but said nothing.

"John Walter would have survived his illness, but you put poison in his medicine!"

A sudden fury took possession of Richard Whinstone when he saw the secret of his life in another's keeping. The carving knife lay within his reach. He seized it and, springing on the stranger, with a desperate plunge sought to bury the blade in his heart, but it glanced as from plate armor and in an instant the little man was on his feet.

"Oh, ho! That's your game, is it?"

And with a trip that sent his heels spinning in the air Richard was thrown headlong with a force that shook the house to its foundation. The club foot was planted on his stomach, and what a horribly ugly foot it was! It was cleft like the hoof of an ox and seemed to weigh a ton.

"Then you are"—

"Pray keep a civil tongue in your head and come along," said the little man.

Richard fainted.

When he came to himself, day was breaking. The old housekeeper, who had found him groaning and sprawling on the floor, had with much difficulty shaken him into consciousness. She assisted him to bed, but Richard never was himself again. The surfeit of pig had brought on a fever, of which he died in eight days. His last rational act was the execution of a will, by which he left the bulk of his fortune to John Walter's widow and child, which, after all, was a simple act of justice, for the demon of nightmare had told the truth.—Cincinnati Post.

When Spurgeon First Preached.

I must have been a singular looking youth on wet evenings, for I walked three, five or even eight miles out and back again to my preaching work, and when it rained I dressed myself in waterproof leggings and a mackintosh coat and a hat with a waterproof covering, and I carried a dark lantern to show me the way across the fields. I am sure that I greatly profited by those early services for my Lord. How many times I enjoyed preaching the gospel in a farmer's kitchen, or in a cottage, or in a barn! Perhaps many people came to hear me because I was then only a boy. In my young days I fear that I said many odd things and made many blunders, but my audience was not hypercritical, and no newspaper writers dogged my heels. So I had a happy training school, in which by continual practice I attained such a degree of ready speech as I now possess.—Spurgeon's Autobiography.

Scandalous.

Mrs. Witcherly—They say Mrs. Dickson has recently become very economical.

Mrs. Larrison—Yes; she's carrying it to an extreme, it seems to me. I hear that she's even trying to get her husband to let his whiskers grow so as to save laundry bills.—New York World.

DAIRY CREAMERY

A MILKER ILLUSTRATED.

Points For Judging or Selecting the Dairy Cow.

Hoard's Dairyman publishes an outline of a dairy cow with special reference to characteristic points, and says:

"We call particular attention to the location and appearance of the pelvic arch and the flank. It is seldom that the former is ever referred to, except in this paper, and yet it is one of the most common, as it is a pronounced peculiarity of the best dairy cows. We may not be able to explain fully why this is so, but it is evident that a rise at this point is a suggestion of an adaptation to the functions and processes of maternity. Nature builds on economic and harmonious laws, all things working together for the accomplishment of the end with the least expenditure of energy.

"We also insist upon a high arching flank, for reasons which seem too evident to call for particular discussion here, but we observe that a deep flank is often mentioned as a characteristic of the dairy cow. We incline to the belief that this seeming contradiction results from a different application and use of the word "flank." Undoubtedly the dictionary definition of this word is broad enough to include the rear half of the belly, but in the dairy form it is as essential that the flank, where it joins the thigh, should be high and arching, as that it should be deep at the median line. It seems better, therefore, to limit the application of the term to the parts above the udder and for the forward part use the more comprehensive word, which includes the lower part of the entire barrel."

The Dog In the Dairy.

If you find a man who understands the question of motherhood, the laws that govern in milk giving, who studies how to produce the best cow possible, and then how to get the greatest profit out of her, you will see that he never dogs or hurries his cows to the pasture or out of it. He knows on which side his bread is to be buttered. Go into his barnyard and you will not find his cows rushing around to get out of his way. He knows enough not to put any obstructions in the way of his profit. Such a man is usually kind hearted to start with, but if he is not his intelligence teaches him the money value of kindness to cows. There is no work on the farm that you had not better slight than your cows. Give a cow a full chance for quiet and comfort in summer's heat and flies and winter's cold. Give her good food, plenty of it, and without too much exercise to get it. Making plenty of milk to make money for you is a big tax on her energies to start with. Adopt for your motto three principles: (1) A good cow; (2) her good health; (3) good milk, and with good, common sense and energy you need not fear a lack of good profit. No man can make a profit out of a poor cow, with good food and care or out of a good cow with poor food, bad care and a dog. Any man with a dairy of cows should make them first in the management of the farm. Farm it for the cows, not cow it for the farm. One will help the other, but the first thing must come first. Swap the dog for more milk and more profit, and the cows will gladly help you along.—Hoard's Dairyman.

Many people burn the candle of life at both ends. Some men who never go into vicious dissipation use up their energies just as much by overwork or late hours; and nearly all women are compelled by circumstances to use up their vital powers beyond all reason: It may be in housework; or social demands; or the bearing and rearing of children: At any rate the candle of life is too rapidly consumed.

Some people need to have their natural vigor constantly reinforced in the same proportion that it is used up. They need the fortifying help of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It is a powerful alterative and invigorant of the digestive functions and liver; it cleanses the blood, and makes fresh blood and healthy flesh. Nervous, debilitated women should take it in conjunction with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription which is specially designed for female weakness and nervous troubles.

Mrs. Sallie Kauffman, of Virgil City, Cedar Co., Mo., writes: "I had suffered from displacement of internal organs and female weakness for one year. Had a bearing down sensation and very disagreeable feeling after my second child was born; I could be on my feet only a few minutes until he was six weeks old, then I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and 'Favorite Prescription.' I took seven bottles in all. After taking the first bottle I felt much better. I think I am entirely cured of all my troubles. I can do all my work and am on my feet all day. I am in much better health now than I have been in four years; am fleshy and gaining strength very fast."

By writing to Dr. Pierce who is chief consulting physician of the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y., careful professional advice will be obtained free of cost and specially adapted to the individual case. Dr. Pierce's great 1000-page Medical Adviser will be sent free for 21 cents; the cost of postage.

THE course of Assemblyman Le Baron of this county, who has voted steadily for U. S. Grant for Federal Senator, is a most commendable one and proves him to be a man of prineiple and back-bone. Long before the Republican primaries were held in this county and the convening of the Cloverdale convention which nominated him he was an avowed Grant man, and to vote for any one of the other Senatorial aspirants while Mr. Grant remains in the fight would be betraying the trust of his Republican constituents. No one in this county is complaining of his course if we except a few Democrats, who for some reason or another prefer Dan Burns for Senator as against the field. That is funny, isn't it? Were it not that the Democrats are perfectly innocent as to the wiles of the naughty Republicans in their Senatorial contests one would be inclined to think that the Burns sack has something to do with this peculiar state of political affairs.

UNDER the new law if a man buys a note and pays his cash for it and neglects to see to it that the necessary revenue stamp is placed on it, the note becomes void and invalid and the man who executes it need not pay it. The purchaser of the note, therefore, loses his money. So it is with a debt, a mortgage, a lien, a rent, a contract and all conveyances. If the stamp is not placed on them they are void and somebody is going to lose money. We take this method of warning the public.—Ex.

SONOMA COUNTY HAPPENINGS.

Accidents and Incidents—Other Matters of Note.

E. A. Howe of Fulton attempted suicide on Wednesday night of last week at that place with a pocket knife.

Dr. M. M. Nichols one of the leading physicians of Healdsburg died at his residence in that city last Monday at the age of 35 years.

The following transfers of wine to the California Winemakers' Corporation have been filed with County Recorder F. L. Wright: Cloverdale Wine Company, 45,000 gallons of dry red wines and 5000 gallons of dry white wines. Leroux Brothers of Sonoma county 16,000 gallons of the vintage of 1897, 10,000 gallons of the vintage of 1898, of dry red wines, 6000 gallons of the vintage of 1897, 3000 gallons of the vintage of 1898 dry white wines.

C. M. Bumbaugh, the well-known house painter of Santa Rosa, met with a terrible accident in that city last Saturday afternoon. He was engaged in painting the interior of Byington's stables and while standing upon stringers between two ladders about twenty feet above the ground floor, the ladder on the left hand side, which formed the support for one end of the stringer in some unaccountable way began to slide at the top. Seeing the danger, Mr. Bumbaugh jumped to seize the ladder on his side of the stable. He failed to reach it and fell to the ground. The stringers slipped from the ladder, and one of the planks fell upon Mr. Bumbaugh's limbs, fracturing both. Sunday morning the right leg was amputated and he may lose the other.

The Editor.

For twelve years this month have we yielded the editorial pen. That's been read easy. Any fool can do that. But it takes a wise man to do that and at the same time keep the interest paid on a chattel mortgage; keep a check on household expenses; chase the fleeting item; write ads for every known business under the sun, and some that we never heard of before; run the personal notices to earth, and be sure and get the name spelled right; pacify cranks; collect from delinquent subscribers; ward off the insinuating advance of the book agent who wants the name of the editor as a starter; struggle with the patent medicine man for a fair divide; entertain the stranger who has come to see what kind of a town you have; coax the doctor to tell you where he found the last baby, the undertaker to whom he sold a coffin, and the minister to divulge the name, ages, etc., of the last couple wedded that didn't invite the editor to the wedding but expect a half-column notice, and in all matters to keep a finger on the public pulse and divide to saint and sinner their due portion. We say it takes a wise man to do all this in one week, and then get out a paper to please everybody. It is needless to add that we have long since discovered that we are not a wise man—Ex.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. ## MEETING OF THE CITY TRUSTEES.

The Water Question Again Revived.

Like Banquo's Ghost, "It Will Not Down"—Bills Passed—Other Matters.

At the regular meeting of the City Trustees, held Wednesday evening, nothing out of the ordinary occurred if we except the revival of the water question. After the minutes of the previous meeting had been read and approved the Trustees got down to business and, as a preliminary, passed the following bills:

|---|---|
| Philip Snyder, labor | $ 1.00 |
| Ranald McDonell, hauling gravel | 2 00 |
| R. A. Poppe, salary and services | 36.50 |
| J. E. Robin, salary and postage | 15.20 |
| F. T. Duhring, expenses to S. F. | 2.85 |
| Total | $57.55 |

The Cemetery Committee reported that it would cost $12 to fence the city plot in the Mountain Cemetery with a suitable fence. On motion the fence was ordered built and the sum of $10 was also appropriated for repairing the road leading to the cemetery.

The trees in the plaza were ordered pruned and Clerk Poppe was instructed to thank P. B. Berges, on behalf of the Board, for his donation of gravel for the streets of the city.

President F. T. Duhring was elected a delegate to the League of California Municipalities Convention which convenes in Sacramento on February 14th.

The Sonoma Volunteer Firemen extended an invitation to the Trustees and other city officials to attend their banquet at the City Hotel on the evening of February 8th. The invitation was accepted with thanks.

Ordinance No. 62, having for its purpose the regulation of charges for burial permits in Mountain Cemetery, was put on its final passage and ordered published in the SONOMA INDEX-TRIBUNE.

The water question then came up for discussion and Clerk Poppe was instructed to report to the Board at its next regular meeting as to the status of the petition from the Sonoma City Water Company for a franchise, and to ascertain if the petitioners meant business and were still desirous of obtaining a franchise to construct and maintain a private water system.

Trustees Davis brought up the question of enforcing the saloon-closing ordinance and the appointment of a Board of Health. No action, however, was taken and the matter went over until the next meeting.

The Board then stood adjourned.

Vagaries of the Weather and Fruit.

It is not thought by our orchardists that the fruit crop of this valley has been seriously injured by the vagaries of the weather the past few weeks. Peach and apricot trees, which usually suffer in the early Spring from frosty weather, are not yet in bloom and the present cold snap will hold the fruit buds back until another warm spell.

As we go to press indications point to a snow storm.

Can Cubans Govern Themselves?

One of the best known diplomatists recently declared that the Cubans are utterly incapable of governing themselves and that the United States must maintain its present control indefinitely, or else annex the island. There will be those who will dispute this opinion, but there are none who dispute the the well established fact that Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is capable of governing and controlling common diseases of stomach, liver, kidneys and blood. It is a remedy that is backed by fifty years of success. It is an ideal medicine for constipation; the most effective purifier for the blood; a tissue and strength builder for those who are predisposed to lung troubles, and for nervousness it is of wonderful benefit. It stirs up a lazy liver, stimulates inactive kidneys and as an appetizer is incomparable. Those whose stomachs are out of order should not fail to try a botttle.

WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

New Camp Organized in Glen Ellen.

The Woodmen of the World organized a new Camp at Glen Ellen on Friday night of last week with a membership of as fine young men as are to be found in Sonoma county. Deputy Head Consul Edwin C. Parker of Santa Rosa was the organizer and the new officers were well drilled in the secret work of the order. The charter list will compose some twenty-five names, all of whom are workers and very enthusiastic, as they have good reasons to be, in regard to their chosen craft. The list of officers is as follows: Consul Commander, Judge Jas. W. Gibson; Adviser Lieutenant, L. W. Justi; Clerk, Chas. E. Harvey; Banker, Robt. B. McCord; Escort, T. W. Howell; Watchman, Ed. Thierkoff; Sentry, Henry Holtz; Camp Physician, Allen M. Thompson, M. D; Managers, John Weltz; R. P. Hill, John Stannard. Their meeting night for the present will be the first and third Saturdays of each month.

Just as the business of the meeting was about completed numerous heavy steps were heard upon the stairs and an assault was made upon the doors of the Foreet. It was manfully withstood by the Watchman until suppressed laughter outside told that a number of ladies were the intruders. When they gained admission they were laden with sandwiches, cakes, coffee etc., enough to feed a gang of summer boarders. Business was at once suspended and a bountiful repast was spread on impromptu tables and was gratefully enjoyed by the gang of choppers present. Among the number was a large wagon load from Rosewood Camp of Santa Rosa. Judge Gibson made a neat speech welcoming the visitors which was gracefully replied to by L. G. Treibig, Clerk of Rosewood Camp. Edwin C. Parker of Rosewood Camp also made some appropriate remarks.

It is quite probable that Sonoma will soon have a Camp of Woodmen, as there is no more desirable order for a man, young or old, single or married, to belong to than this young giant, which is growing more rapidly than any other fraternal organization.

The Edwin Lord Estate.

Walter H. Lord has filed his petition to be appointed administrator of the estate of his father, Edwin Lord of Embarcadero, who died at that place on Thursday of last week. The estate consists of real estate in this county valued at $12,500, personal property valued at $1000 and real estate in San Francisco, its total value not exceeding $15,000. The heirs are the petitioner and his sister, Maud Edna Rose.

Railway Notes.

On Wednesday, February 22nd' Washington's birthday, will be "Sonoma County Day" at the Cloverdale Citrus Fair, special excursions will be run from Santa Rosa, Petaluma, Sebastopol, Healdsburg, Guerneville and way stations. This will be a great day for our people.

Engine No. 5 of the California Northwestern Railway Company brought a pile-driving crew of eight or ten men to Sonoma last Saturday and they are registered at the Union Hotel. During their stay the crew will overhaul and repair all the bridges of the company on the Sonoma Valley branch of the road.

The material for the new drawbridge of the California Northwestern Railway at the crossing of Sonoma creek is now at Fairville. In order not to obstruct travel on the road the new drawbridge, which is to replace the old one, will be put in by sections. This bridge will be a great improvement on the old structure and will be provided with a driveway to one side of the rails for teams. It is expected that the work will be completed the latter part of this month.

SENSATIONAL DIVORCE SUIT.

An Alleged Forced Marriage at the Point of a Pistol.

A Callow Youth of Santa Rosa the Plaintiff.

Attorney Leppo has filed in the office of the County Clerk papers in the case of Charles A. Linebaugh vs. Lillian N. Linebaugh, being a suit for the annullment of the marriage between the parties which was solemnized in Santa Rosa on January 23d last, says the Republican.

In his complaint the young groom, who is a student of the Santa Rosa Business College, alleges that he was married under peculiar circumstances. He alleges that at about 11:30 o'clock on the date mentioned "the defendant caused to be sent a message representing that his father was then at the Magnolia hotel and desired to see plaintiff there immediately. That plaintiff, pursuant to said representations, which he believed to be true, went immediately to said hotel for the purpose of meeting his father. That on arriving at said hotel plaintiff was accompanied to a room therein by defendant's father, mother and sister, in which room defendant and a woman who is unknown to plaintiff were waiting.

"That immediately after the plaintiff entered the said room the said defendant closed the door of said room and then and there and for one and one-half hours continuously thereafter, by means of threats of great bodily harm and against the life of plaintiff, and in the use of force, and the violent and menacing exhibition of a deadly weapon, at and upon said plaintiff, did, against his will and consent, and contrary to protests, detain and imprison him in said room, and deprive him of his liberty, and while under said duress the said defendant did exhibit in a menacing manner a deadly weapon to-wit, a loaded revolver, and stated and threatened to plaintiff that if he did not then and there marry her she would shoot and kill him."

The complaint further recites that defendant went to the Clerk's office and got a license; that she subsequently went to the hotel and that plaintiff was unwillingly married to her by a minister of the gospel of that city; that defendant swore falsely to secure the issuance of the license by declaring under oath that plaintiff is more than 21 years of age.

For the reasons stated plaintiff prays that the ties which bind him to his young bride be dissolved.

ALL SORTS OF WEATHER.

Merry May Coquetting With Hoary December.

To use a smart phrase all sorts of weather has prevailed in this valley the past month, and the calendar apparently has gone all to pieces. January was heralded in with a fierce sou'wester that brought with it rain and floods, which were followed by one of the coldest snaps ever experienced in this section of the State. Then came warm showers and a hot dry wind lasting several days, succeeded by veritable May day weather. The air was warm and balmy and the months of May or June were never more sunshiny and pleasant than the latter part of January. This spring-like weather came to a sudden termination last Tuesday morning when the atmosphere suddenly turned bitter cold, since which time shivering humanity, which a week ago was trying to keep cool, now has its hands full trying to keep warm.

FAT TAILED SHEEP.

Cape Colonists Use the Curious Appendage For Butter.

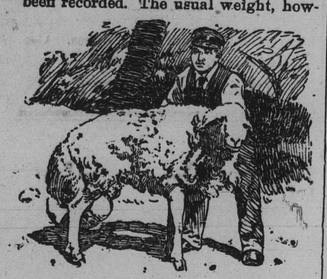
The fat tailed sheep of Cape Colony which have recently been presented to the zoo, says London Sketch, represent the indigenous breed of South African sheep. The fat tails were the only sheep the natives possessed when Europeans first landed in the country. Nature has been curiously generous to this sheep, as she has been to other breeds, in the matter of tail. Some tails weigh as much as 20 pounds, and Professor Wallace states that particularly fine samples weighing even 30 pounds have been recorded. The usual weight, however, varies from 6 to 15 pounds—quite enough for any sheep to carry about with him, one may suppose. This curious appendage, which is broad and flat, consists chiefly of fat, and the fat is sometimes used as a substitute for butter. The lop ears, long legs and hairy—not woolly—coat of the fat tail sheep, together with his preposterous tail, give him a curiously unsheeplike look, but he is hardy and easy to please in the matter of grazing, whence he and his cross bred descendants enjoy considerable measure of popularity among the Cape farmers.



CAPE COLONY FAT TAILED SHEEP.

Profit In Hogs.

The fact that a well fed hog is ready to kill at any time makes swine perhaps the most generally popular and profitable kind of farm stock to grow for meat. A dressed hog is always salable and if the price is not right at the time the pork can always be barreled and sold at a profit. We have known forehanded farmers who when pork was much below its usual paying price would always put their hog crop into the barrel and sell it out by the piece. This makes much better pork than that put up by the great establishments in the west, for farmers cut out the ribs when they barrel side pork and without the ribs the pork keeps better. It is true the nicest, sweetest meat on the hog is close to the ribs and in the tenderloin. But there is danger in this lean, tender meat, especially when in contact with bone, where, as the old saying is, the meat is always sweetest. In every case where meat begins to become tainted the first place to spoil is close to the ribs, probably because in packing pork with the ribs there is always some air in the bone, and this affects the meat adjoining it. So in every locality where pork put up by farmers can be had it is generally preferred to the packed meats from the grocery, which have been put up with the bone in some western city.—Boston Cultivator.

Hogs Fed on Liquor.

People in Harrodsburg, Ky., have expesimented and discovered a method of securing the best pork in the world. Several weeks ago a drove of 50 hogs was turned in on a trough of fermented beer, which is bourbon whisky in its first stage. The porkers took this new diet greedily, and the entire lot of hogs were absolutely intoxicated for about three weeks until the swill gave out. They would gulp down the beer until they could hold no more, stagger off, drop down anywhere in a stupor, sleep it off and then go and repeat the dose. The sight of from 30 to 50 intoxicated hogs, some fighting, some too stupid to fight, and some rolling down the hill into the distillery branch, from which they had to be rescued to prevent drowning, was a novel one and attracted the attention of many neighbors. When the beer gave out, they would neither eat anything else nor be comforted, and it was absolutely pitiful to see and hear them squealing around the troughs. These fat shotes were killed last week and butchered and their meat unanimously pronounced to be the best flavored, tenderest and most savory pork ever tasted.—Louisville Commercial.

Western Ranges.

Arizona, New Mexico and Texas report good ranges for the winter, and conditions for a good winter are better than they have been in a long time, except in a few scattered localities. This fact is said to make sheep men less anxious to sell their lambs than usual, for with a fair winter the flockmaster can cut 50 to 75 cents' worth of wool from his lamb in the spring and still get as much or more for the animal as this fall, with very little additional expense for carrying through.

Tamworth Hogs.

The Tamworth hog has a very long snout, which our breeders are apt to laugh at, but the average head weighs 30 per cent less than the head of the Berkshire or Poland-China hog. The Tamworth has a tremendous length and depth of body, and is strong and deep through the flank. It is the best animal for producing young, being very prolific, and it is a good mother. As a rule the Tamworth sow farrows at least a dozen pigs, and seldom loses any of them.

Notice of Business Change.

The old saying that "the unlooked-for always happens" may be true in the present instance. The Sonoma News is no more! Having sold the paper and its good will to Mr. Granice, the business and subscription books pass into his hands. Those who are in arrears for their paper will please pay Mr. Granice and those who have paid in advance will receive the INDEX-TRIBUNE to full extent of their subscriptions.

There are three reasons I might give for making this change. It is well known that I did not buy the News with the intention of running it myself. A person usually sells a commercial commodity when the price asked is accepted. The third reason is the more potent one—our patronizing territory is too limited to properly support two weekly newspapers.

But we do need and must have for the weal of the commonwealth one good, wide-awake paper, which shall be alive to the best interests of our people; and such a paper Mr. Granice will be able to furnish us providing he has the good will and support his paper merits. So we sincerely hope all our subscribers and patrons will lend a hand.

With a thank you to our friends and wishes for the success of the INDEX-TRIBUNE we break our quill.

E. E. THOMPSON.

How To Find Out.

Fill a bottle or common glass with your water and let it stand twenty-four hours: a sediment or setting indicates an unhealthy condition of the kidneys; if it stains your linen it is evidence of kidney trouble; too frequent desire to pass it or pain in the back is also convincing proof that the kidneys and bladder are out of order.

WHAT TO DO.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passages. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. At druggists fifty cents or one dollar.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells more about it, both sent absolutely free by mail, if you send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing be sure and mention that you read this generous offer in the INDEX-TRIBUNE.

STOCK FOR FEEDING.

Points by Professor Curtiss on Selecting Cattle For This Purpose.

In the fourteenth annual report of the United States bureau of animal industry Professor C. F. Curtiss has the following to say about the "Selection of Stock Cattle For Feeding:" "Practical and experienced feeders, who breed and purchase steers for fattening, observe striking differences in the aptitude of animals of varying types and make up to lay on flesh readily and in such form and quality as to command the highest price on the market. It requires a well trained eye to detect in all cases the possible variation of results in the store or stock steer, but there are some distinctions that are easily detected. There are certain types of cattle, for instance, that never feed profitably under any conditions, and it is quite as important to discriminate against these in the feed lot as to be able to recognize the excellence in other types.

"The characteristics that make the profitable feeder are naturally more difficult to detect in animals in stock condition than when fattened, but notwithstanding this there are a number of indications that are fairly reliable. Though the young steer may be comparatively thin in flesh and temporarily lacking the thick, even covering of the back and ribs so essential in the finished carcass, he must nevertheless present a blocky frame and stoutness of build, accompanied by short, straight legs, wide back and loin, well sprung ribs, fullness back of shoulders and in flanks, prominent brisket, full neck vein, wide chest and well rounded barrel, together with a good, soft, mellow handling skin and fine, silky hair, giving what is termed the thick, mossy coat, without coarseness and with it all a good, strong vigorous head, clear, full eye and quiet temperament. The importance of an even covering of flesh and good handling quality can hardly be overestimated. The bone should be moderately fine and clean. Coarseness either in the bone or about the head and horns is particularly objectionable, as it indicates coarseness of texture throughout and a greater percentage of offal and cheap meat, as well as a tendency to sluggish circulation. The head should present a certain refinement, finish and vigor that in a measure indicate general quality and superior excellence of finished product, though this refinement must not be accompanied by delicacy."
